Altofina High Pressure Laminate (HPL) is a hard working material boasting a number of practical benefits over similar products. It is extremely durable and resistant to heat, impact, moisture and everyday wear and tear. The incredible toughness is matched by the ease with which the laminate can be formed into the gentlest of curves or the tightest of angles. Altofina is also environmentally sound, non-toxic and simple to clean.

This outstanding quality comes at an affordable price, with a commitment to long lasting excellence, whatever the setting.

Altofina and the Environment

Body copy

Manufactured using environmentally sound production techniques, the Altofina range employs kraft paper derived from softwoods, either recycled or sourced from sustainable forests. Synthetic resins are also used in the manufacturing process, which are not damaging to ecological systems and produce an end product that is completely safe, hygienic and approved for contact with food.

The Altofina wood effect laminate range achieves the look and feel of the real thing, without the adverse cost to the surroundings. Properly cared for it will retain its excellent quality for years to come.

Care and Maintenance

Body copy

A melamine overlay ensures that Altofina products provide hardy and exceptional resistance to abrasion, heat and a number of chemicals (solvents etc). Keeping the surfaces clean could not be easier, with a damp cloth and mild detergent being all that is necessary. Methylated spirits can also be used sparingly in the event of stubborn marks, although scouring powders and abrasive cleaning pads are not recommended.
